

Orega have been delivering high quality, serviced offices, virtual offices and meeting rooms for over 25 years. Their offices are run by brilliant teams and powered by supercharged technology. They currently operate 25 centres across the UK, helping over 10,000 customers boost their productivity. For more information about Orega go to www.orega.com

Acoustipics
art with benefits

Orega were looking for a solution for two spaces: a small meeting room perfect for calls and small meetings and a phone booth style room. The solution had to be effective and stylish to match the stunning office décor. The acoustics in the small meeting room were a little bouncy and as it was positioned near the main concourse, there was a need for increased privacy. The requirement for the smaller phone booth was more focussed on acoustic spill with improved acoustics as the added benefit. Acoustipics were added portrait style to maximise coverage for both standing and sitting conversations. The artwork chosen was complementary to the existing office wall art. Both rooms are now very popular with clients, the small meeting room very much preferred over the others of a similar size and location. The clients which share a wall with the phone booth are much happier with the added privacy provided by the Acoustipics protection against acoustic spill.

hello@acoustipics.com
www.acoustipics.com

At a glance:

Requirements

Improved audio comfort and privacy

The Solution

Acoustipics 90 x 60cm pictures in booth and meeting room

The Result

Increased room use and improved customer satisfaction